Washington, D.C.

Margary Rogers, RPR, CRI, is a dedicated leader and advocate in the court reporting profession, serving her second year as a Director on the NCRA Board. With 25 years of experience across freelance, official, and CART reporting in Washington, D.C., she is passionate about preserving stenography and advancing the mental and physical health of court reporters.

A strategic thinker, Rogers brings innovation and solutions to support the profession. She holds a Bachelor of Science in Court Reporting, an Associate of Science as a Legal Assistant, and a Concentration in Psychology. She is a graduate of the D.C. Courts' Management Training Program in Washington.

Rogers served as Director, Secretary, President-Elect, and two terms as President of the Maryland Court Reporters Association. An NCRA member for 27 years, she chaired NCRA's Membership Committee and served on several NCRA committees. Rogers advocated at four NCRA Leadership & Legislative Boot Camps to protect our profession on Capitol Hill.

Rogers is a community builder who has pioneered initiatives like CRR Practice & Prep, Steno Karaoke, and the Steno Fitness Challenge. The first recipient of the NCRF Carl Saucedo Grant, Rogers shares her knowledge with students and stenographers by assisting them in advancing their skills.
