Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.

Registered Skilled Reporter

The RSR certification recognizes those stenographic professionals who are looking to validate their beginning level of competency. The RSR was created as a stepping-stone credential to ultimately achieving the Registered Professional Reporter (RPR) designation. Earning the RSR will demonstrate an ability to hold a verified level of skill to current and potential clients; current and potential employers; and fellow reporters.